Yesterday's Republican contains an indecent attack upon Judge Perry, as full of false statements and malice as it is of paragraphs.

Prince David denies that he will withdraw, or that he has given Wilcox the remotest ground for stating that he, David, would withdraw in Wilcox's favor. David is in this fight to a finish, and Wilcox wants to stand from under.

The Markham incident is typical of the gang making up the Independent leadership. An irresponsible combination awayed by the emotions of the hour, they have not the remotest idea of representation in their organization. The way in which men are fired into and fired out of their party and ticket, reminds one of the French Revolution, where the despot of yesterday was the victim of to-day. And these are the men who claim the right to control the destinies of Hawaii!

Like the flowers of spring, the Frank Waterhouse Company is again with us, with a new line of steamers between Seattle and Honolulu. This time there is a variation in the program however, as the return trip will be to San Francisco, and thence to Seattle. The four steamers proposed are the Centennial, Charles Nelson, Jno. S. Kimball and Santa Anna. As these steamers are not the equal in size or speed with the new Oceanic, or Pacific Mail boats, it is to be hoped that they will charge less than $75 passage money between the Coast and the Islands. There is a demand for such a service which these boats should fill.

Every resident of Hawaii has the utmost interest in the success of the wireless telegraphy experiment now going on here. The operations of the Marconi expert recently arrived will be followed with great interest. There does not seem to be any reason why success should not be achieved. Recent accounts of wireless telegraphy communication across the British Channel tell of a message being accidentally read at a station eighty miles up the English coast. Wireless telephony from the main land to a light house three miles from shore is now in successful operation in Ireland; and a young English inventor has succeeded in steering a submarine torpedo by electric energy known as "Hertzian waves," without direct connection between the torpedo and the operator.

THE GOVERNOR'S DECISION.

The decision by Governor Dole to take the responsibility of advising the use of more compartments for voting in the congested precincts, will be a great relief to the public mind. It has been with a considerable degree of apprehension that the community has looked forward to the attempt to do the impossible for 911 voters to select fourteen names out of forty-three, on four separate ballots in 540 minutes. Rumors of strife and force at these precincts have been in constant circulation. It is a condition and not a theory which faces the community, and the position taken by the Governor is the strong one and the right one.

The main object of the election law is to secure a full and free ballot by all of the legally qualified voters. An unforeseen contingency has arisen which threatens to disfranchise hundreds of voters and create a disturbance of the peace as well, unless some relief can be had. Even though only three polling booths are provided for by law, this is simply a detail in the general provisions for holding the election, and it is better to disregard a detail of this kind, which can harm no one, than to disfranchise hundreds of men and provoke an almost certain fight.

The irregularity is one which appeals to the common sense of the citizen, and we believe it will appeal to the common sense of the legislature, which will have the final decision of the question. Even though the legislature should take the extreme position that the irregularity vitiated the election, it would be better that the vote of these precincts should be thrown out in this manner, than that it should be imperfectly presented with a fist fight accompaniment.

THE MERCHANTS' APPEAL.

The appeal sent out by the leading mercantile houses of Honolulu to those who do business with them, published herewith, is one of the strongest political documents which has appeared during the campaign. There is no suggestion of coercion. It is a calm but forcible argument, showing why, from a non-political, plain business standpoint, it will be disastrous to the business and laboring interests of Hawaii if Wilcox and the Independents are elected.

It will be noted that the appeal is signed by both those of Republican and Democratic sympathies, and that it does not suggest that any man vote either the Democratic or Republican ticket. This choice is left wide open to voters.

The only point made is, that in the mutual interest of all concerned, the government should be placed in the hands of those of character and responsibility, and that the Independents are not of this kind.

THE DANGER OF SCRATCHING.

The Advertiser called attention last Friday to the advisability of voting the straight Republican ticket. It was pointed out that a ticket as a prerequisite to success must be representative in race as well as in character; that the native Hawaiians in the party were among the most active and earnest of the party workers; that good faith and decency required that the white members of the party should give as well as take, and that it were better for the full ticket to go down in honorable defeat, rather than that the white members should be elected and the native members defeated through treacherous scratching.

The theory of some of the would-be scratchers is that by scratching certain names off the Republican ticket and adding certain "best men" from other tickets, those who are scratched will be injured, but the remaining members will not be affected. This is an error. Every name scratched from the Republican ticket injures the chances of election not only of those scratched, but of every other man on the ticket.

For example:

There is good reason to believe that more—considerably more—than one-third of the voters of Oahu are Republicans. It is useless to underestimate the strength of our opponents however.

There are, in round numbers, 5,500 voters on Oahu. Assuming by way of illustration, that of these 2,000 are Republicans, 1,900 Democrats, and 1,500 Independents, it is self-evident that if all the Republicans vote the straight ticket will be elected.

Imagine now that so-called "Independent Republicans" indulge in scratching the ticket in favor of the "best men" on other tickets. There is no agreement as to whom should be scratched. Some will drop one and some another, and between the whole of them, the general average of the whole ticket will be lowered. It must be remembered that two can play at the game of scratch. While Mr. Fred Macfarlane and Mr. W. M. Giffard have announced their intention of voting for the "best men," they probably have not thought that the laborers in their employ have opinions of their own, and that their opinions as to who the "best men" are will probably differ radically from those of their employers.

If, in the example given above, 200 Republicans should scratch the ticket, the average received by the Republican ticket will be reduced to below 1900. If these 200 votes are given to Democratic candidates, the Democratic ticket will poll 2100 votes, and be elected. If given to the Independents, that ticket will be elected; while if they are divided between the two parties, the Republican ticket would still be defeated.

Again, if the scratching voter does not think Mr. B, a Republican candidate, one of the "best men," and votes for Mr. C on the Democratic ticket instead, it does not follow that C will be elected. It may turn out that C has been defeated, and that D of the Independents has beaten B of the Republican ticket by one vote. As between the Republican and the Independent he would have much preferred the former, but unintentionally, by voting for the Democrat the scratching voter has elected the Independent.

Every man who deems that Republican success—or Independent defeat—is essential or beneficial to the interests of himself or the Hawaiian Islands, is wholly unsafe in voting anything but the straight Republican ticket. To such a man, we say, not only vote it yourself, but urge your neighbor to vote it; speak to your employees and associates, and explain how scratching any Republican name may defeat the whole ticket.

The "best men from each ticket" theory is a snare and a delusion. It is to-day the greatest danger that confronts the Republican party of Hawaii. This election is a tug-of-war, with a walkover for no one. A strong pull and a pull all together is what gives strength to a team or a party.

The issues of this campaign are so serious that we can afford to take no chances. The straight ticket gives the chief assurance of success.

ITALIAN LABORERS.

It is so easy to conjure up a stiletto and the Mafia whenever an Italian is mentioned, that the sensational stories concerning the character of the Italian laborers who were on their way to Hawaii from New Orleans, and who refused to come further after arriving in San Francisco, may be taken with a grain of salt. There is certainly no ground for attacking the motives of the planters who were trying to bring them here.

A serious demand for labor exists here, which the planters in good faith and at heavy expense are endeavoring to supply with labor from the United States. It is all well enough to say that Norwegian, German, or other nationalities are better, but it is a case of first catch your hare and then cook him. In Louisiana, where the opportunities are far better for securing labor than in Hawaii, the only nationality whose people the sugar planters have been able to secure in any numbers is Italian, and they have given good satisfaction.

It is unreasonable to shut off the only heretofore available supply of labor necessary to the existence of the plantations and then carp and gibe at every effort that is made to secure others.

There is one legitimate ground of objection to the immigrants who were left in San Francisco, however, and that is that they were unaccompanied by their families. The overwhelming majority of males over females already here amounts to a serious menace. Moreover in the interests of the planters themselves, the immigration of single men should not be encouraged or sanctioned. A single man, in a strange country, with no home ties or comforts, is restless and dissatisfied, and sooner or later he will quit and move on, leaving the planter in the lurch for labor and out the cost of the laborer's passage; while a man with a family is more likely to be a quiet, steady man; he is better contented with his family about him and the comforts of home, while the family is likewise an anchor and the center of a fresh supply of labor, for even a child can water cane and do light jobs. The sooner the immigration of single male labor is stopped, the better for all concerned.

Hawaii's Highest Alii out for Parker.

Prince Albert Kuniakea Publicly
Declares He is a Republican.

Prince Albert Kuniakea, the last of the royal Kamehameha line, announced his allegiance to the Republican party at the rally held in the premises of W. C. Achi on Saturday night. The announcement came as a surprise to all the parties. Prince Albert mounted the platform from which Sam Parker was speaking and said he would vote for Sam Parker and the rest of the Republican ticket. He asked for the McKinley button which Mr. Parker wore in his coat lapel and placed it upon his own coat. In strong terms, using figurative expressions to illustrate his views, he said the people of the Islands from Hawaii to Niihau knew Sam Parker. The latter had always treated the people well and the latch string of his door was always out. Prince David he said was young —too young for the office of Delegate to Congress.

Robert Wilcox never treated anybody or entertained them, said the Prince.
"The people should vote for the best man, and I think that man is Samuel Parker."
His declaration in favor of the Republican party was the signal for rounds of applause to which the Prince modestly bowed his thanks.
"Parker is just as much a Kamehameha as I am," Parker's grandmother brought up the chiefs," he said. "An ali is your servant—you are kings; he is the servant."
Prince Albert Kuniakea has been a Democrat. He is a unique figure in the history of Hawaii, his genealogy being derived from the noblest and greatest line of kings of the Island group. Were there a monarchy, Prince Albert would stand as the rightful heir to the throne.

Vote the Straight Republican Ticket.

More census bulletins: "Horse-neck, Wis., September 29th.—The people of this city are dissatisfied with the census, which gives it a population of thirty-three souls. It had been confidently expected that the returns would show at least forty people here. The gain of 46.7 per cent, however, is considered highly gratifying."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Truss Advice

We advise a celluloid truss because it wears longer than the other kind and is more comfortable to wear than a leather covered one. It may seem odd that we advise you to buy a long-wearing truss, thinking we like to sell as many as possible. We do. The only trouble is that people have an uncomfortable habit of blaming a Druggist for the short comings of a leather covered truss. Then they buy the next truss somewhere else. If you buy a celluloid truss of us it will give you such good service that you'll come to us when you need another.
